VIÑA REAL, RIOJA, SPAIN

Vina Real was launched in the 1920s, these wines are produced from grapes grown in the heart of the Rioja Alavesa province. The vineyards border the “Camino Real” or “Royal Drive”; hence the origin of the Vina Real name. It is one of the first brands to produce age-worthy wines in the Rioja Alavesa from Tempranillo grapes. The balanced, elegant wines combine New World fruit intensity with Old World style, often compared to the wines of Burgundy.

ESK VALLEY

Esk Valley is a boutique winery, but it is unique in that many of the techniques used to craft its award-winning wines are dictated by the winery itself. The old concrete vats, the layout of the buildings, and the absence of modern technology mean the people at Esk Valley have had to make wine in a simple, honest, hands-on way.

Situated in the north of New Zealand's picturesque Hawkes Bay, at Bay View is the Esk Valley Estate winery. The winery sources fruit from Hawkes Bay, including the world-renowned Gimblett Gravels and Marlborough, as both regions consistently produce grapes of an extremely high quality.

CONTINO

A joint-venture by CVNE and the Perez-Villota family, it was José de Madrazo Real de Asúa who first saw the potential of the vineyard to produce grapes in their own right. He effectively established Contino as the Bordeaux chateau concept in Rioja. There are some 60 hectares of vineyards planted here along the northern bank of the river Ebro.

The winery itself is found within the estate's old farmhouse which overlooks the entire property. Since 1999 Jesus Madrazo, son of José, has been in charge of winemaking and takes a very hands-on approach to the business. He uses a mix of French, American and Hungarian oak to achieve soft, opulently-flavoured wines.
